| Teaser                     | Do you employ people who work with external X-ray equipment or external stray radiation sources and may be exposed to a dose higher than 1 mSv? Then you must report this to the competent authority, enclosing the necessary documents (notification).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Volltext                   | If employees from your company work in other companies and may receive more than 1 mSv as an effective dose per calendar year from the interference emitters or X-ray equipment there, then the company is considered to be working in connection with external facilities in which X-ray equipment or interference emitters are operated. As the sending company, you must notify the competent authority for radiation protection of the employment in the foreign facility. You also need a radiation protection officer with the appropriate expertise. If you have a permit for employment requiring approval in third-party facilities or installations, no notification is required.                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
