Teaser	If you want to establish a business that transports goods by road, you must demonstrate your professional competence.
Volltext	You will need this certificate of qualification to apply for a licence for the domestic transportation of goods by road or for an EU licence for the transportation of goods by road within the European Union. As a business operator or transport manager, you must demonstrate that you have the professional expertise required for running a road haulage company. You normally demonstrate this by passing an exam. In Germany, you will sit the exam at your local Chamber of Commerce and Industry (IHK). In the examination, you must prove that you have the required legal and business knowledge, knowledge of technical standards and applicable regulations, and knowledge of road safety. The guidelines for the preparation of the exam contained in the link in the 'further information' section provide an overview (in German) of the required knowledge.

Sachverhalt

It is advisable to prepare in depth for the exam, for instance by attending a preparational course or through intense self-study. However, these are not legal requirements for registering for the examination.

The exam is a comprehensive examination consisting of two written parts and one oral part. You must achieve at least 50 percent of the total marks in both of the written parts to be admitted to the oral exam. If you also achieve at least 50 percent of the total marks in the oral exam, and your overall score is at least 60 percent of the grand total of marks, you have passed the exam. If you have achieved at least 50 percent of the available marks in both of the written parts and have already achieved at least 60 percent of the grand total of available marks, you are exempted from the oral examination.

In certain cases, a transitional arrangement may allow for your professional competence to be certified without sitting the exam. If you have successfully completed a recognised course of vocational training in the freight forwarding and logistics sector which began before 4 December 2011, the Chamber of Commerce and Industry will issue a certificate to you upon request without the need to sit the exam.

If you held a managing position in the freight forwarding industry for ten years or more before 2009, you can also be issued a certificate of professional competence without needing to take the exam. Please refer to the information linked in the 'further information' section.
