Volltext	If you have more than one home in Germany and the status of your home has changed (main home is now used as a secondary home or secondary home is now used as the main home without there having been any move-in or move-out to a new home or from a previous home), then you are required to notify the relevant registration authority. Main residence is: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • If you are married or in a civil partnership: the predominantly used home of the family or civil partnership. This also applies if you are only temporarily living apart from your family or civil partner. • If you are married or in a civil partnership and live permanently separated: Your predominantly used home. • If you are a minor: the main home of your parents or foster parents. If they live separately, the main residence is the residence in which you mainly live. • Only if the predominantly used dwelling cannot be determined beyond doubt, the focus of the living relations is to be taken into account. Indications for this are, for example, the type of dwelling, personal ties, social and communal political activities as well as membership in clubs and other organisations. At the same time, you are obliged to inform the registration office of any other residences (secondary residences) you have in Germany in addition to your
