Teaser	In order for people with disabilities to receive support for labor market integration, their occupational aptitude may need to be determined in advance or a work trial conducted. The employment agency pays the individual participation costs.
Volltext	If you, as a person with disabilities, require services for participation in working life, the Federal Employment Agency can support you with a range of measures and support services. Which integration benefits are suitable for you depends, among other things, • whether the services are suitable for you and your specific case in order to increase your chances on the labor market, • what your personal inclinations are and how they can be useful in your working life, • what activities you have performed so far, and • how the labor market is currently developing. While you are participating in a vocational aptitude assessment or in a work trial (diagnostic measure), the Federal Employment Agency will pay for you during this time, including your • Costs for room and board if you have to be temporarily accommodated outside your own or your parents' household, • course costs, costs for exams or learning materials, • Travel expenses, such as travel, food and lodging expenses for you and, if necessary, for your companion, • costs for household help, and • Costs for child care. In addition, you can continue to receive unemployment benefits during this time. You will only receive transitional benefits if you do not earn any or only a lower wage due to participation in these measures. Whether you have to participate in a diagnostic measure is decided by your employment agency on a case-by-case basis.

Erforderliche Unterlagen	Please ask your advisor which documents you need when contacting her/him.
Voraussetzungen	• You have a disability and your responsible rehabilitation agency is the Federal Employment Agency. • In order to receive the above-described benefits for work testing/clarification of occupational aptitude, you must have agreed with your counselor to participate in a diagnostic measure sponsored by the Employment Agency.
Kosten	None
Verfahrensablauf	In order for your costs for participating in a vocational aptitude test or work trial to be paid, you must coordinate with your employment agency: • To do this, make an appointment with your advisor at the Agentur für Arbeit. • If you do not yet have a personal contact at the employment agency, make an appointment via the service hotline of the Federal Employment Agency. • In a personal meeting, it will be clarified whether your professional suitability needs to be clarified or whether you should take part in a work trial. • If a suitability assessment or work trial (diagnostic measure) is necessary, you will be registered with a provider who will implement the measure on behalf of the Employment Agency. • Your advisor will also discuss with you the forms you need to fill out. You can also fill out the documents
