Sachverhalt

the missing person can be declared missing. This period must be waited for in any case. Apart from this period, the processing times are as follows Widow's and widower's pensions: as a rule, depending on the type of pension: • small widow's and widower's pensions: 4 months • large widows' and widowers' pensions: 3 months Child-raising pension: Usually 4 months Orphan's pension: As a rule, depending on the type of pension: • Half-orphans' pensions: 3 months • Full orphan's pensions: 5 to 6 months

Frist

Widow's and widower's pension: If the deceased person • already received their own pension, your widow's or widower's pension begins at the earliest in the month following the date of death. • If the deceased has not yet received a pension of his or her own, your widow's or widower's pension begins on the date of death. The application period for survivors' pensions is 12 calendar months from the date of death. This period also applies if a pension has already been discontinued and is applied for again at a later date. If the survivor's pension application is submitted later, the pension only starts from the month of application and cannot be paid retroactively. Child-raising pension: Your pension starts on the first of the calendar month at the beginning of which you meet the requirements if you submit the application within 3 calendar months. If the application is submitted later, you will receive the pension from the month of application. Orphan's pension: Retroactive payment of the orphan's pension: up to 12 calendar months before the month of application.

Approval

- Pensions due to death are widows' and widowers' pensions, orphans' pensions and child-raising pensions
- The pension due to death in the event of disappearance is a special regulation for pensions due to death.
- This regulation applies if a death pension is claimed but death is not proven.
- If spouses, divorced spouses or parents are missing, the pension insurance institution can determine the death itself for the purposes of statutory pension insurance if the circumstances make the death probable and no news of their life has been received for one year.
- The pension insurance institution may require the beneficiaries to declare in lieu of an oath that they are not aware of any information about the missing person other than that reported.
- The established date of death remains decisive even if a different date of death is established or certified by a court.
- The other eligibility requirements for the respective pension must be met for payment of the pension due to death in the event of disappearance.
- There is no separate application form for "missing persons". In addition to the usual application form for the pension applied for, the determination of the date of death due to disappearance must be applied for informally.
- Personal advice is strongly recommended (e.g. at the pension insurance advice centers)
- Applications can be submitted online, in person or in writing.
- Responsible: German Pension Insurance
