reduction of your pension. However, this only applies if you have not yet reached the standard retirement age, i.e. if you have retired early.

If you have reached the standard retirement age, you can earn an unlimited amount of additional income without it being offset against your old-age pension.

Erforderliche Unterlagen

- Valid identity card or passport
- in case of application by other persons: Power of attorney or Order of the court

Voraussetzungen

You will receive the early retirement pension for younger spouses or civil partners upon application if

- you have reached the age that is relevant for you
- your spouse/life partner is or was already entitled to the normal standard old-age pension or early old-age pension for those insured for many years.
- you have completed the minimum insurance period (waiting period) of 15 years,
- The waiting period of 15 years takes into account all compulsory contributions as well as voluntary contributions that you have paid or are deemed to have paid to the agricultural pension fund. Contributions for periods prior to 01.01.1995 are generally only taken into account if they have been paid without interruption.
- If a pension equalization was carried out in your favor, the transferred entitlement will be converted into waiting period months.

Periods from other pension schemes:

- Periods from other pension systems, for example, periods in the statutory pension insurance scheme, can also be counted towards your waiting period.
- If the foreign periods overlap with those of the agricultural pension fund, the foreign periods cannot be credited at the same time. This also applies if you were exempt from compulsory old-age insurance as an entrepreneur during the same period. An exemption from compulsory insurance as an assisting family member, on the other hand, does not prevent third-party periods completed during this time from being credited.

The following periods may be credited:

- Compulsory contribution periods to an institution of the statutory German pension insurance and equivalent periods of the social insurance of the former GDR,
- Periods of exemption from insurance in the statutory pension insurance, for example as a civil servant judge professional or temporary soldier, and as any other person covered by a civil service pension scheme
- Periods of exemption from compulsory insurance in the statutory pension insurance, for example employees and self-employed persons who belong to a professional pension scheme teachers and educators at private schools, if they are covered in the same way as civil servants
- certain foreign periods under supranational and intergovernmental law
