Teaser	If you attend an integration course, you can receive a travel allowance under certain conditions.
Volltext	The Federal Office for Migration and Refugees (BAMF) is a higher federal authority and is responsible, among other things, for the travel allowance for attending integration courses. You can receive the travel allowance if you have to walk more than 3 kilometres from your home to the course location. Another condition is that you do not have to pay a contribution towards the costs of the integration course. You can receive a lump sum per course day, i.e. a fixed amount of money. Make your application in good time before the start of the course. As a rule, you will receive the travel allowance from the course section that begins after your application. Retroactive payment for the period before your application is not possible. If the course location or your residential address changes, you must submit a new application for a travel allowance to the BAMF. You can apply for the travel allowance online or in writing at the responsible regional office of the BAMF.
