Teaser	If you or your child were born abroad, it may be useful to re-certify the birth in a German birth register.
Volltext	If you or your child were born abroad, you can, under certain conditions, apply for the subsequent certification of the birth in a German birth register. There is no obligation to re-certify – duly issued birth certificates from abroad are generally recognised in Germany. However, the subsequent certification in a German birth register can be advantageous, because the local registry office can then issue you with a German birth certificate. Any translations and certifications of the foreign birth certificate will thus be omitted in the future. A subsequent certification can also be useful if the name or the parentage relationships in Germany are to be proven bindingly.
Erforderliche Unterlagen	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • As a rule, you will need the following documents: • Complete foreign birth register extract or – if not available – birth certificate of the child, possibly with translation, legalisation or apostille • Birth certificates of the parents, possibly with translation, legalization or apostille • Parents' ID cards naturalisation certificate, if applicable or citizenship certificate • if the mother is or was married: Marriage certificate, possibly with translation, legalisation or apostille and in

Kosten	There are fees according to the state law, to which the competent registry office is subject.
Verfahrensablauf	In principle, the application can be submitted via the German mission abroad if you are resident abroad. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • All documents and identity documents must be presented there in the original. • If necessary, certified copies can be made at the diplomatic mission, for which additional fees apply. • As a rule, the diplomatic mission can also determine whether a name declaration is required. In this case, a corresponding declaration can be recorded on the spot.
Bearbeitungsdauer	Depending on the individual case
Frist	Basically none; if the German parent was born abroad after 31.12.1999, the child acquires German citizenship in the case of habitual residence abroad only if the certification of the birth in the German birth register is requested within one year after the birth of the child, unless the child would otherwise become stateless.
