Sachverhalt

If your business did not exist in the previous calendar year, the wage tax to be paid for the first full calendar month after the opening of the business is decisive. To determine the wage tax registration period, this must be converted to an annual amount.

As an employer, you are required by law to submit the employment tax return electronically.

You can only submit the employment tax return authenticated with an electronic certificate. You will receive the certificate if you have registered with My ELSTER. Please note that registration can take up to 2 weeks.

Only in exceptional cases can your competent tax office waive electronic transmission of the income tax return upon application (so-called hardship clause). If you are granted an exemption, you must submit the wage tax registration on an officially prescribed form.

In order to avoid queries from the tax office, please always enter the number of your employees in the field provided for this purpose in the wage tax declaration.

If you discover that an income tax return already submitted is incorrect or incomplete, you must submit a corrected income tax return for the relevant filing period. In doing so, entries must also be made in the lines in which no changes have occurred.
