Teaser	With the "Sport and Refugees" program, the state of Hesse supports Hessian municipalities in the integration of refugees on site through sports activities.
Volltext	Making it easier for refugees to integrate into society through sports and exercise programs - this was the aim of the unique state program "Sport and Refugees" launched in Hesse in 2016 in cooperation with the Sportjugend Hessen. Since then, around 300 - mostly volunteer - sports coaches have been active every year. As networkers, they bundle the interests of all those involved locally (including local authorities, sports clubs, asylum support, refugee initiatives, refugees). They take part in a training course once a year to ensure quality. Hessian municipalities can use the funding - independently and tailored to local needs - for expense allowances for sports coaches and trainers, for material resources for sports and exercise activities with refugees and for intercultural training measures. There are separate funding opportunities for initial reception facilities.

In 2019, the funding program was expanded to include the second funding pillar "Qualification and Participation". Targeted qualification measures are intended to encourage refugees and migrants to volunteer or take on other voluntary work in sports clubs. In addition, the promotion of sports coach tandems - consisting of a sports coach with and without a personal migrant background - has been newly created. In this way, participants acquire qualifications that facilitate integration and at the same time become role models. On the other hand, clubs and sports coaches gain easier access to the target group.

At the end of 2018, the European Union presented the funding program with the #BeInclusive Sport Award in recognition of its valuable and important integration work.
