Teaser	The possible uses of drones are very diverse. If you also want to fly over geographical areas during operation, you may need to apply for a permit.
Volltext	Drones are unmanned aerial vehicles which, together with the remote control, form an "Unmanned Aircraft System" (UAS). They offer you a wide range of possible applications, for example in the field of photography and videography, for rescuing fawns or surveying areas. When operating a drone, you may also want to fly over geographical areas for which you require a permit. A geographical (UAS) area is a part of the airspace defined by law or by the competent aviation authority that permits, restricts or excludes UAS operations. This is intended to avoid risks for the relevant areas. Do you want to fly over a geographical (UAS) area but are unable to obtain permission from the operator or the competent authority? For example, do you want to operate your aircraft near airports or over residential properties without consent and at an altitude of less than 100 meters? If you have a legitimate interest in doing so, you can obtain a permit
