Teaser	If you are planning the creation of new forest and the afforestation of forest meadows, you must submit a corresponding application.
Volltext	The creation of new forest and the afforestation of forest meadows may only take place with the prior consent of the competent authority under Land law. If you are planning such a project and submit a corresponding application, the competent authority, with the participation of the lower forestry authority (as well as other specialist authorities involved), checks whether the legal requirements are met. After receiving the respective approval, you can implement your plans. Your application for new forest creation will be examined and decided by the magistrates in the district committees of the districts or in the independent cities. Other specialist authorities (such as the forestry office as the lower forestry authority) are involved in the procedure. In the case of areas of more than five hectares, the decision is also taken in consultation with the regional planning body and the
