Teaser	Do you want to start your career as a teenager? Then you need to be medically examined before starting work.
Volltext	If you are not yet 18 years old and would like to start gainful employment or vocational training, you must first be examined by a doctor (initial examination). The examination will determine whether you are physically and developmentally suitable for this profession. This is to prevent you from suffering damage to your health as a result of your work. After the examination, you will receive a certificate. You must present this to your employer. You do not need an examination if you start a marginal job or if you only work for a short time (maximum 2 months). This applies, for example, to a holiday job or a student internship. The costs of the investigation are paid by the state. You must apply for the initial examination in order for the examination costs to be reimbursed.
