requirement

- certain procedures (e.g. sterility tests)

Hint: Pathogens within the meaning of the Infection Protection Act are viruses, bacteria, fungi and parasites as well as other pathogens that can cause an infection or communicable disease in humans.

Erforderliche Unterlagen

You can submit the informal application in writing or in person. If you submit the application in writing to the competent authority, it must be signed by hand or provided with a qualified electronic signature. Data:

- Proof of graduation (e.g. diploma certificate, doctoral certificate) in certified copy
- Proof of competence: Certificate of 2 years of full-time occupation with pathogens by the employer concerned
- For proof of personal reliability: If you are resident in Germany, you usually need: Certificate of good conduct. If you reside abroad, you will need documents from your home country proving that you have the personal reliability to perform the desired service.

When checking personal reliability, the authorising authority may, in individual cases, request further documents in addition to the documents listed, which are suitable for making a statement about your personal reliability as an applicant.

Voraussetzungen

You will be granted permission to work with pathogens if you:

- possess the necessary expertise, and
- have so far proven to be reliable in terms of working with pathogens.

You can prove the required expertise by completing a degree in human, dental or veterinary medicine, pharmacy or the completion of a scientific college or university degree with microbiological content as well as at least 2 years of full-time work with pathogens. Another full-time professional activity in the field of bacteriology, mycology, parasitology or virology for at least 2 years will also be recognised as proof of
