Verfahrensablauf	The approval process begins with an application from the forest owner or an authorized person. The forestry authority must first inform other authorities about the application, which can then comment on it. The district or independent city and the land consolidation authority are always informed. The regional planning authority and the Chamber of Agriculture are only informed if their interests are affected. The decision on the eligibility for approval is made once the forestry authority has weighed up the rights, obligations and economic interests of the forest owner and the interests of the general public. To this end, the forest owner must demonstrate that refusal of the permit would unreasonably affect him. In addition, he must demonstrate that the proposed new type of use is only possible on a forest area.
Bearbeitungsdauer	Processing usually takes 5 to 6 weeks due to the necessary involvement of the other authorities.
