| Teaser | Customs can temporarily defer your tax debts if immediate payment would be a major burden for you. |
| Volltext | It may happen that you are unable to pay your tax debts to the customs administration due to temporary economic problems. In this case, the customs administration can defer all or part of your claims arising from the tax debt. However, this is only possible if immediate collection on the due date would cause you considerable hardship. Significant hardship means <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • You are temporarily experiencing serious payment difficulties due to unfavorable economic circumstances that affect you personally, or • You would get into such payment difficulties if you had to pay the amount due immediately in one lump sum. The customs administration's claim must not appear to be jeopardized by the deferral. The considerable hardship must be temporary. You cannot rely on mere avoidable payment difficulties. The customs administration will charge interest for the duration of any deferral granted. The customs administration generally requires you to provide security for the deferral. This could be the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Guarantee by a third party • Land charge for a property • Security mortgage The customs administration can grant you partial payments, i.e. payment in installments. |

Verfahrensablauf

You can apply for deferral online or by post, fax or e-mail. Online:

- Go to the customs portal. To be able to use the customs portal, you must register once.
- Log in there with your access data for ELSTER (electronic tax return). As a private individual, you can also use the online ID function of your ID card or your BundID to register. If you do not yet have an ELSTER account or BundID account, you will need to register separately once.
- Complete the application for deferral in the "Services" menu item.
- Select the main customs office responsible and upload any necessary documents. The main customs office responsible for assessing or collecting the underlying claim arising from the tax debt is responsible for processing your application. This is usually the main customs office that issued the tax assessment notice or the main customs office where the tax declaration is to be submitted.
- The main customs office may request further evidence or declarations from you.
- The main customs office will decide on your application with an electronic decision.
