Teaser	When you move into an apartment, you need a landlord's confirmation of residence for the registration office. Find out more here.
Volltext	If you move into a new home, you will need confirmation from your landlord or landlady that you have moved in. You will need this confirmation for your registration office when you register or re-register. The landlord or landlady is usually the owner. It may also be the property management company appointed by the owner. If you are living as a subtenant, the main tenant may also be involved. The confirmation contains the following information: • Name and address of the landlord or landlady and the owner, if different, • Date of moving in, • address of the apartment and • the names of the persons required to register.
Erforderliche Unterlagen	none
Voraussetzungen	The following requirements must be met: • You have moved in or moved house and • You are not the landlord or landlady yourself.
Kosten	none
Verfahrensablauf	The procedure is as follows: • You contact your landlord or landlady and ask him or her to confirm that you have moved in using the official form. • You then present the confirmation to the registration authority when you register or re-register. • If access is available, the landlord or landlady can also send you the confirmation electronically. In this case, you inform the registration authority of the so-called
