Volltext	If you would like to work as a translator in judicial matters, you need an authorisation (Section 142(3) of the Code of Civil Procedure). The translators' activities include written voice transmission. Interpreters are responsible for the oral transmission. Upon request, anyone who has the necessary personal reliability and is professionally suitable is authorised as a translator. The authorization includes the right to certify the accuracy and completeness of translations. This also applies to translations that have already been made, which are submitted for verification of correctness and completeness. The authorisation does not entail a public appointment.
Erforderliche Unterlagen	To prove personal reliability, you have • a personally written curriculum vitae, • a declaration as to whether there is a life in orderly economic circumstances and whether criminal proceedings or preliminary proceedings are pending against you, • a statement as to whether there is a willingness and the actual possibility of being available at short notice within the scope of the field of activity on request, to attach it to the application, and • to apply for a certificate of good conduct for submission to an authority (document type 0) and • present a registration certificate and a birth certificate.
