Volltext	The Federal Ministry of Education and Research (BMBF) has been offering the Deutschlandstipendium scholarship since the summer semester of 2011. The scholarship provides 300 euros per month to students and first-year students who are expected to achieve outstanding academic and professional results. Half from the federal government and the other half from private donors: in the medium term, up to 8% of all students at German universities are to benefit from the new alliance of civil society involvement and state funding, with the number of recipients set to grow continuously. The concept of achievement on which the scholarship is based is deliberately broad: Good grades and academic achievements are just as much a part of it as the willingness to take on responsibility or successfully overcoming obstacles in one's own life and educational path. Scholarship holders receive the income-independent grant of 300 euros per month (in addition to BAföG benefits) for at least 2 semesters and at most until the end of the standard period of study so that they can successfully concentrate on their university education. The awarding of the scholarships is decided by committees at the respective universities. Most universities in Saxony-Anhalt participate in the program.

Voraussetzungen

Each university decides on its own requirements. As a rule, you must have an outstanding academic record. In addition, students who are socially committed are often selected.

Find out directly from the university at which you are enrolled or at which you wish to enrol about the admission requirements and the application procedure. Many universities have their own website with information on the Deutschlandstipendium.

The universities must recruit private sponsors for a scholarship.
