Teaser	If a funeral is not organized by relatives or representatives of the deceased person, an official burial will take place.
Volltext	If a person dies, the funeral must take place within a certain period of time. The funeral must be organized by the relatives of the deceased person. In individual cases, a person or institution may be obliged to do so if the deceased person instructed them to do so during their lifetime. If no relatives and no other obligated persons or institutions (authorized representatives) can be found, a burial is carried out by the regulatory authorities. In this case, the funeral is organized by the municipality. In principle, burials and cremations are possible with official burials. Due to the lower costs, most local authorities opt for cremation followed by an anonymous burial.

Verfahrensablauf	If a person dies, the public health department is notified. The public order office then attempts to locate relatives or representatives of the deceased person and the deceased person's burial wishes via registration authorities, registry offices, parishes/religious communities and probate courts. If this search is unsuccessful within the burial period, the public order office will arrange an "ex officio burial". Religious particularities must also be taken into account here. The municipality will cover the costs of a simple burial. The regulatory authority can also use the services of a funeral home.
Bearbeitungsdauer
Frist	The burial or cremation should take place within 10 days of the death being confirmed. The urn must be buried within one month of cremation.
