Teaser	If you have completed a journeyman's or final examination in a recognised training occupation in the craft sector and have qualified professional experience, you can become self-employed or exercise a managerial function in most crafts subject to licensing.
Volltext	Anyone who has completed a journeyman's examination or a final examination in a recognised training occupation and has acquired relevant professional experience can become self-employed in many trades requiring approval or exercise a business manager function. The professional qualification must have been obtained in the craft to be practised. In the case of certain crafts, it is sufficient if the professional qualification was obtained in a craft related to it, which can be inferred from the Ordinance on Related Crafts. In addition to a journeyman's or final examination, proof of relevant professional experience is also required, which must be acquired after the training. At least six years of professional experience is required, including at least four years in a managerial position. A
