Teaser	Your child has problems in everyday life or in his development? As a parent, do you need support in raising your child? Then educating your child in a day group can be a possible help.
Volltext	Education in a day group is particularly suitable for children of school age and older who exhibit behavioral problems or developmental delays. This is a type of assistance for upbringing. It can also be suitable for young adults according to §41 SGB VIII. A day group is a so-called partial inpatient help. During the week, your child will be looked after in a day group during the day after school. Afterwards, however, it can remain in the family and thus in the familiar environment. Education in a day group means: • Your child receives therapeutic and pedagogical care • It receives support in integrating into the school and the social environment. • It learns in a group how to deal with other children and how to cope with conflicts. • It learns to organize its everyday life and receives suggestions for meaningful leisure activities. • Parents are intensively involved, for example through counseling sessions, parents' evenings or parent-child meetings. The goals of education in a day group are • the strengthening of the child • the strengthening of the parents
