Teaser	Would you like to know whether there is a suspicion of contaminated sites or harmful soil changes on a property? Then you can apply for information from the contaminated site register at the competent authority.
Volltext	Suspected contaminated sites are, on the one hand, land of disused plants/plants and other land on which environmentally hazardous substances have been handled (old sites) and, on the other hand, land of disused waste disposal plants and other land on which waste has been treated, stored or deposited (old deposits). The competent authority maintains a register of contaminated sites in which areas suspected of being contaminated are registered. For various reasons, a property owner or a person with a legitimate interest needs information as to whether there is a possible suspicion of contaminated sites for a property. For this purpose, you can submit an application to the competent authority for information from the register of contaminated sites. In order to provide the information to persons who are not themselves owners of the requested property, a power of attorney from the owner must be presented.
Erforderliche Unterlagen	An application is required, which requires the following
