| Volltext | Anyone who has reached the age limit (65 years and older, depending on the individual case) or who, as an adult, is permanently fully incapacitated for health reasons, can receive benefits from basic security in old age and in case of reduced earning capacity. Basic income support in old age and in the event of reduced earning capacity is intended - like assistance for subsistence - to ensure the necessary subsistence. This applies in particular to the costs of accommodation and heating, food, clothing, personal hygiene, household goods and personal needs of daily life, such as telephone, newspaper or going to a concert. Scope of the basic allowance The amount of the benefit depends on the level of need. The competent authority must take into account the person's own income and assets when calculating the benefit. Relatives are only liable for any maintenance obligations if their annual income exceeds EUR 100,000. The legislator has excluded a so-called liability of heirs, which means that the heirs are not obliged to |

Sachverhalt

- Application forms can be obtained from the competent office. Forms and leaflets are also available on the internet, depending on the service offered by the authority (access via "Forms/Online services" in the right-hand margin or on request from the competent office).
- You submit the completed application together with the required evidence to the competent authority.
- You will receive written notification as to whether and to what extent the application has been approved.

Examination of disability for work

If it needs to be clarified whether you are incapable of working, the competent office will contact the competent pension insurance institution.

The examination by the pension insurance institution is not necessary if the person concerned already receives a pension for reduced earning capacity or is admitted to a workshop or other institution for disabled people.

Bearbeitungsdauer

Frist

The benefit is usually approved for twelve calendar months, in the case of a provisional approval for a maximum of six months.
