Volltext

Every truck driver who drives a vehicle for the commercial transport of passengers or goods with a digital tachograph must be in possession of a driver card. The driver card is issued on application by the Federal Motor Transport Authority (KBA).

The driver card stores the driving and rest periods for 28 days as well as the data on the identity of the driver. The driver card is therefore a personal document and cannot be transferred to third parties.

In principle, the following must be equipped with a driver card

- all vehicles and vehicle units used for the carriage of goods and whose maximum permissible mass, including trailers or semi-trailers, exceeds three and a half tonnes
- Vehicles for passenger transport with more than eight passenger seats from the date of first registration 01.05.2006
