Medical officers are doctors who work in the public health service.

Volltext

The districts and independent cities are obliged to set up a specialist medical service (public health service) to fulfill their public health service duties. In Schleswig-Holstein, public health officers are all doctors who work in the public health service and have completed special further training in the field of public health. (In the past, however, the medical director of the municipal health authorities was usually referred to as a public health officer).

One of their main tasks is to carry out medical examinations and assessments and to issue expert opinions, certificates and attestations. Many legal provisions expressly require an official medical examination. They are often commissioned even if this is not expressly required. One of the reasons for this is that public health officers are characterized by their particular independence and their special additional expertise in the field of public administration.

Public health officers perform other activities, for example in the areas of health prevention, infection protection and environmental hygiene. They work on behalf of other authorities as well as private individuals.
