Teaser	For many activities involving the commercial handling of animals, you require a permit from the competent authority.
Volltext	You require a permit if you wish to carry out the following activities with animals on a commercial basis: • Breeding or keeping vertebrate animals other than farm animals and wild game • trade in vertebrates • maintain a riding or driving operation • exhibiting animals or making them available for this purpose • Controlling vertebrates as pests • training dogs for third parties, such as companion dogs or assistance dogs, maintaining facilities for this purpose or instructing the training of dogs by the animal owner, for example through dog schools Registration of a trade is not a prerequisite. As a rule, a trade is deemed to exist if the activity is carried out independently, systematically, continuously and with the intention of making a profit. A permit is also required if you wish to carry out the following activities: • You carry out the breeding or keeping, including for sale to third parties, or use of vertebrates or cephalopods which are themselves or whose organs or tissues are intended to be used for scientific purposes,
