Teaser	Anyone wishing to use plant protection products in an area of application other than that specified in the authorization requires a permit.
Volltext	Plant protection products may only be used if they are authorized. The competent authority may, on application, authorize the use of an authorized plant protection product in an area of application other than that specified in the authorization in individual cases if • the application is intended • on plants that are only cultivated on a small scale, or • against harmful organisms that only cause significant damage in certain areas and • the intended use corresponds to that in an area of application specified in the authorization. The authorization must be combined with the necessary conditions to protect human and animal health and to protect against other harmful effects, in particular on the ecosystem.
Erforderliche Unterlagen	Before issuing the permit, the competent state authority must obtain an opinion from the Federal Office of Consumer Protection and Food Safety.
