If you fill in an organ donation card, your personal data will not be registered. You can therefore change your decision at any time by destroying your ID or filling out a new one.

Volltext

Many people suffering from particularly serious diseases (e.B. liver, heart, kidney or lung diseases) can only be saved by organ transplant. With an organ donation certificate, you can

- consent to organ or tissue removal after your death,
- contradict it,
- Limit your consent to certain organs or tissues, or
- transfer the decision to relatives or confidants.

Note: The general determination of death in respiratory and cardiac arrest can be made by any doctor. However, the prerequisite for organ donation is the diagnosis of "brain death". This is subject to binding, particularly strict directives. Two experienced intensive care physicians must document the diagnosis after detailed clinical and physical examinations. Your organ donation card will remain valid for as long as you wish. If you fill in an organ donation card, your personal data will not be registered. You can therefore change your decision at any time by destroying your ID or filling in a new one (e.B. with an amended consent to remove certain organs). Talk to your close relatives about your attitude to organ donation so that they can know your decision and act on your mind if necessary. Tip: Further information on organ donation can be provided by the German Organ Transplantation Foundation and the Federal Centre for Health Education. Attention: Your health insurance company is obliged to inform you regularly about organ and tissue donation (from the age of 16 years). It must provide you with appropriate information documents and provide you with competent advice on any questions you may have. The health insurance company asks you to document your attitude towards organ and tissue donation - preferably in an organ
