| Volltext | Co-payments must be made for medications, remedies and treatments that are prescribed. However, people with health insurance do not have to pay more than two percent of their annual gross income. For chronically ill people, the burden limit is one percent of annual gross income. Gross income includes all income with which insured persons finance their living expenses - for example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Salary • pensions or pension payments, • Capital interest • Rental income The annual gross income of all dependents living in the household is taken into account when calculating the burden limit. These may be spouses, civil partners under the Civil Partnership Act or children covered by family insurance. For families, the burden limit is reduced by the child allowance and, if applicable, the allowance for the |
