provided, for example via:

- Study aptitude tests/apptitude tests
- artistic aptitude tests
- completed vocational training,
- professional activities,
- voluntary services/internships.

For access to advanced courses of study (e.g. master's degree), you need a first university degree that qualifies you for a profession (e.g. bachelor's degree).

If you have foreign school-leaving qualifications, various online databases (e.g. DAAD, uni-assist, hochschulstart or ZAB) will help you to classify your foreign qualification in the German education system.

If the foreign certificate does not allow direct admission to a course of study, a subject-specific university entrance qualification can be acquired retrospectively by successfully completing years of study at a university in the home country or by taking the assessment test at a German preparatory college.
