If, after the initial diagnosis, treatment and support in one of these early intervention centers is indicated, a support and treatment plan is drawn up together with the parents or a caregiver of the child. The result is also communicated to the treating family doctor. The initial diagnosis is covered by the health insurance. If further treatment is provided at an Early Intervention Center for Special Education, the costs are covered by the social welfare/integration assistance providers or the public youth welfare providers. In the case of an Interdisciplinary Early Intervention Center, the costs are shared. The costs for the curative education part are borne by the social welfare/integration assistance providers or the public youth welfare providers, while the medical-therapeutic treatments are borne by the health insurance funds.

Modul

Sachverhalt

Support in social pediatric centers (SPC):

Children who cannot be treated by suitable doctors or in suitable interdisciplinary early intervention centers because of the nature, severity or duration of their disability or impending disability are treated in social pediatric centers. The referral of disabled children or children at risk of disability to SPCs is arranged by contract physicians in private practice. In the SPC, diagnostics, treatment and support are carried out in close cooperation with the referring physician, the parents, other institutions providing treatment and support, and the social environment. Compared to the early intervention centers, more medical and therapeutic treatments are carried out in social pediatric centers. The centers are under medical supervision. The costs are covered by the health insurance companies. The social and youth welfare offices pay for the educational services. In an SPC, medical-therapeutic services can be provided for children and adolescents up to the age of 18.

Bearbeitungsdauer

Frist

There is no fixed deadline for the start of the measures. Early detection and early support can begin at birth or in the case of abnormalities during early childhood development and ends at the latest when the child is admitted to school. If you have questions or need concrete help, contact the responsible rehabilitation agency or a remedial early intervention center, an interdisciplinary early intervention center or a social pediatric center in the state of Mecklenburg-Vorpommern. The earlier you seek advice, the better.
