Sachverhalt

- non-income-related benefits, such as basic pension, care allowance, severely disabled person's allowance, clothing allowance, as well as
- income-related benefits, such as compensatory pension, spouse's supplement, occupational injury compensation.

Compensation is not paid for pecuniary or immaterial damage. This also applies to self-inflicted injuries (for example, if you started a fight).

You may be denied benefits if you, as the injured party, do not contribute to the investigation, for example, if you do not file a report.

For foreigners, the scope of benefits depends on the length of their legal residence. Your stay is also considered legal if your deportation is suspended ("Duldung"). On the other hand, people who are staying in Germany illegally are not entitled to benefits.

Erforderliche Unterlagen

- Written request
- if available: Evidence of the act of violence (e.g. copy of police report/criminal complaint), evidence of damage to health (doctor's report)

Voraussetzungen

- You are the victim of an intentional unlawful assault in Germany or the survivor of a person killed as a result of such an assault.
- You can prove the assault
- your health damage is due to this attack
- the health consequences of this injury continue

Kosten

There are no fees to pay.

Verfahrensablauf

You submit an application for compensation for victims of violent acts to the competent body. The competent office will inform you of any documents that need to be submitted. It examines your case and informs you whether and what assistance you will receive.

Bearbeitungsdauer

Frist

In principle, there are no deadlines to observe. However, you should file an application as soon as possible to facilitate the investigation after the crime.
