Teaser	Would you like to commission a medium-sized combustion, gas turbine or internal combustion engine plant? Then you must with the responsible immission control authority.
Volltext	If you are planning to put certain medium-sized combustion, gas turbine or internal combustion engine plants into operation, you must notify the responsible immission control authority in advance. The obligation to notify generally applies to all combustion plants with a rated thermal input of at least 1 MW and less than 50 MW, whether or not they require a permit. In the case of aggregated combustion plants, you must notify the planned commissioning if the combined rated thermal input is more than 1 MW and less than 50 MW. The authority responsible for you will then enter the information you provide in a register of installations, which is publicly accessible.
