Teaser	Are you asked by the Federal Statistical Office to provide data for over-indebtedness statistics? You can submit the data online.
Volltext	The Federal Statistical Office (StBA) continuously collects and analyses data on the topics of income, consumption and living conditions of private households with the aim of drawing a picture of the different living conditions in Germany. These statistics serve, among other things, as a basis for action by politicians. In this context, the Federal Statistical Office collects over-indebtedness statistics on an annual basis. It reports on the situation of over-indebted people and people threatened with over-indebtedness in Germany. For example, she asks about the triggers of financial emergencies. The aim of the survey is to understand how over-indebtedness of private individuals can be avoided or resolved. For this survey, the Federal Statistical Office relies on data from debtor or insolvency advice centres. Bodies in Germany that are sponsored by welfare and consumer associations as well as associations of municipalities and other bodies under public law or that are recognized as non-profit or registered as an association are surveyed. The transmission of the anonymised data of your institution for over-indebtedness statistics is voluntary.

	Before you submit the data to the Federal Statistical Office, you need the consent of those seeking advice, who are shown in the statistical data. The data transmission works via software with an interface that automatically extracts the data from your software systems and transmits it to the Federal Statistical Office.
Erforderliche Unterlagen	You do not need to submit any further documents.
Voraussetzungen	For the transmission of personal data of those seeking advice, you must obtain the same's consent for the transfer of data.
Kosten	There are no costs for you.
Verfahrensablauf	If the Federal Statistical Office requests data from you for over-indebtedness statistics, you can submit them via the eSTATISTIK.CORE online reporting procedure. A software with an interface to official statistics transmits the relevant data from your software systems directly and automatically to the Federal Statistical Office. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • You don't have a counselling centre number (ID number) yet? Then send them to the Federal Statistical Office by e-mail. • For data transmission: Log in to the survey portal of the Statistical Offices of the Federation and the Länder. Follow the respective instructions to use eSTATISTIK.CORE. Haven't registered yet? Then you need to do this first. Go to the online registration form on the website and fill it out. In a few days, an ID and password will be sent to you by post. • If your data is in DatML/RAW format, data collection and transmission is automated. The software with interface to official statistics automatically selects the required data from your database. If your data is not in DatML/RAW format, you can import a CSV file into eSTATISTIK.CORE and create a datML/RAW file there. • After selection, the data is automatically transmitted to the Federal Statistical Office in encrypted form. • You will receive a message about the successful data transmission in your mailbox on eSTATISTIK.CORE.
