Volltext	Out of force - renewing a severely disabled person's ID card Since January 1, 2013, the severely disabled person's pass has been issued in the form of an identification card (credit card format). It is therefore no longer possible to renew it for technical reasons. If your severely disabled person's ID card expires, you can apply for a new severely disabled person's ID card. If you still have an old severely disabled person's pass in DIN A6 paper format, it will remain valid until it expires. However, this will no longer be extended, but will be replaced by a new severely disabled person's pass in credit card format when it expires.
Erforderliche Unterlagen	• Application form • Documents to prove the disability (assessment notice according to the law on severely disabled persons) • Passport photo, if applicable Exception: In the case of severely disabled people who cannot leave the house or can only do so with the help of an ambulance, the ID card will be issued without a photograph on application. The issuing authority will then note "valid without photo" on the ID card. • for non-EU citizens: valid residence permit The competent authority may request further documents from you if necessary.
Voraussetzungen	Degree of disability of at least 50.
