Teaser	If you, as a taxable (legal) person, earn foreign income from a country with which an agreement to avoid double taxation exists, a certificate of residence may be required for submission to a foreign tax authority. may be required.
Volltext	The foreign state often requires a certificate of residence within the meaning of a double taxation agreement (DTA), for example, if you apply abroad for exemption or reimbursement of withholding tax levied there on interest, dividends or royalties. The residency of a person is to be determined according to the respective regulations of the specific DTA between Germany and the other country in which the income is received. If you need advice on this, you can request it for a fee from a tax consultant of your choice.
	Certificates of residence may only be issued on an official form. They are issued by your tax office or the tax office of your company.
	The certificate of residence may already be part of the foreign exemption or refund application (e.g. for foreign investment income or license fees). For this purpose, the Federal Central Tax Office (BZSt) provides the forms agreed with the respective foreign tax authority. In addition, the form of the German tax authorities valid for all types of income can be used, which is provided by the Federal Tax Administration. Erforderliche Unterlagen written application (in duplicate) Voraussetzungen You can submit the application on your own behalf (as a natural person, for example as a partner in a partnership) or on behalf of a legal entity (e.g. corporation). A certificate of residence according to double taxation agreements (DTAs) can be issued: • only for income tax purposes, • if the natural person or legal person • is domiciled in Germany in accordance with the respective DTA and • income was earned abroad (e.g. foreign capital gains or royalties), or • no income has been earned abroad, but the foreign state requires the submission of a certificate of residence for necessary reasons (for example, to delete a tax registration of a person in that state). Kosten Gebühr: Es fallen keine Kosten an Verfahrensablauf You can apply for a certificate of residence under a double taxation agreement (DTA) in writing to the tax office responsible for you or the legal entity. • You must submit the application form in duplicate. • Based on your application and the contents of the file, the tax office will then check whether the requirements for confirmation of residence in Germany are met. • If the requirements are met, the tax office will certify your residency directly on the form you have submitted. • The tax office will hand over or send you the original copy of the certificate of residence and keep the duplicate on file. Bearbeitungsdauer 0-1 Monat(e) Frist None. The residency of the person can be certified at a specific time or period.	Modul	Sachverhalt
