| Volltext                   | Youth work is an independent part of youth welfare. It performs the educational tasks according to § 11 of the Eighth Book of the Social Code (SGB VIII) - Child and Youth Welfare (KJHG) and advocates for the concerns and interests of young people in public. Youth work is intended to make young people aware of their shared responsibility in society, to enable them to become more self-determined and to bring them closer to social commitment. It strengthens young people's ability to act on their own responsibility by building on their interests and allowing them to have a say. You can get suggestions and help from the competent authority <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• in the development of quality criteria for youth work institutions and services,</li> <li>• in the implementation of own measures and offers</li> <li>• for the project management of regionalised youth work,</li> <li>• during inspections to ensure compliance with the provisions of the statutory protection of minors and punishment in the event of violations of the provisions of the statutory protection of minors</li> </ul> |
