dismissal is required. The special protection against dismissal also applies regardless of the size of your company.

You need the approval of the Integration or Inclusion Office for all types of dismissals, i.e. for

- ordinary dismissals,
- extraordinary dismissals (without notice) and
- notices of change.

In addition to the main reason for the dismissal, the Integration or Inclusion Office also examines other points before deciding whether the dismissal is legal, for example

- Size and economic situation of the company
- Fulfillment of the employment obligation

As well as the following points about the severely disabled person:

- Type and severity of the disability,
- age,
- personal circumstances
- the length of service with the company and
- the chances of finding another job on the general labor market in the event of dismissal.

Particularly in the case of dismissals for personal and behavioral reasons, the dismissal is clarified in the dismissal protection proceedings. Among other things, it is clarified what the company or department and the company integration team did to prevent the dismissal and whether preventative measures were taken.

In the case of extraordinary dismissals (without notice), the integration or inclusion office checks whether the dismissal is related to the severe disability. If this is not the case, it should approve the dismissal and thus open the way to the labor court.

Dismissal without the involvement of the representative body for severely disabled employees (if present in the company) is invalid. If there is no representative body for severely disabled employees in the company, there is no obligation to involve them.

Dismissal without the prior consent of the Integration or Inclusion Office is also invalid. It cannot be subsequently approved by the Integration or Inclusion Office either.

They only do not need approval if the severely disabled employee

- resigns themselves,
- has worked in your company for less than 6 months,
- has reached the age of 58 and is entitled to a severance payment or similar benefit,
- in the event of dismissal for weather-related reasons, if the employer has given a binding promise of re-employment,
- if the status as a severely disabled person could not be determined by the competent authorities at the time of termination, or the employment relationship is terminated without notice, for example by means of a termination agreement.

Erforderliche Unterlagen

- Severely disabled person's pass (not always required)
- Notification of recognition from the pension office about the severe disability (will be requested by the Integration Office for employees. The employer is not entitled to this document) (not always required)
- Notice of equal opportunities from the Federal Employment Agency (not always required)
- Job description
- Detailed justification of the intention to terminate the contract

Verfahrensablauf

You must apply for consent to the dismissal of a severely disabled person in writing:

- Contact your regional integration or inclusion office to receive the application form for consent to termination. Fill it out completely and send it to the Integration Office with the required documents. An informal application is also possible
- Upon receipt of the application for consent to termination, the Integration Office will examine the facts. To this end, it listens to the severely disabled person and obtains the opinion of the works or staff council and the representative body for severely disabled persons. Tip: You can obtain the opinion of the works or staff council and the representative body for severely disabled employees in advance and add it to your application. Statement to the Integration Office with the date of application or thereafter.
- If necessary, the Integration Office will also call in specialists (e.g. the Integration Service or the Technical Advisory Service) and obtain further opinions and expert opinions. In order to clarify the facts, it may also conduct the examination of witnesses.
- The Integration Office is obliged to work towards an amicable settlement at every stage of the procedure. This can be done particularly well in an oral hearing with all parties involved.
- Within the framework of an amicable settlement, the Integration Office can also offer services of accompanying assistance in working life from funds from the compensatory levy, for example for the disability-friendly workplace design or to compensate for extraordinary burdens that may be associated with the employment of the severely disabled person.
- If an amicable agreement cannot be reached, the Integration Office will make a decision on the application after dutiful discretion and consideration of the mutual interests of the two parties. Special regulations apply in the case of dismissals in connection with business closures, significant operational restrictions and insolvencies.
- To this end, the Integration Office issues a notice of dismissal, which is addressed to you as the applicant and at the same time to the employee as a party to the
