Volltext	Special social difficulties arise from the combination of special living conditions with social difficulties that cannot be overcome independently by those affected. Special living conditions may be (according to § 1 Abs. 2 of the regulation according to § 69 SGB XII): • an insecure economic livelihood, • non-existent housing or inadequate housing conditions, • violent living conditions, • discharge from a closed facility, • comparable adverse circumstances. The aim of the aid is to enable affected persons to cope independently in everyday life according to their possibilities and to enable integration into society. Persons who have found themselves in such difficult living conditions involving particular social difficulties that they are unable to overcome them on their own are entitled to this assistance. The particularly difficult living conditions or social difficulties must be clearly distinguished by a particular degree of severity from the general life crises such as unemployment, illness, marital disagreements and the like.

The benefits of assistance to overcome special social difficulties are subordinate to the benefits of other social service providers / rehabilitation providers as well as other provisions of SGB XII (social assistance), insofar as these fully cover the need.

In the case of assistance to overcome special social difficulties, notwithstanding the principle of the subordination of social assistance, the crediting of income and assets is waived insofar as services are required in individual cases.

Assistance shall include all necessary measures to overcome the particular difficulties which prevent integration into society. These include in particular:

- Advice and personal support for those seeking help and for their relatives,
- assistance in finding an apartment,
- measures to obtain a job, and
- Assistance in coping with everyday life.

The above services are provided in particular by outpatient assistance, such as

- Day stays,
- Outpatient assistance
- Transitional housing and - insofar as these outpatient measures are not sufficient - through inpatient housing offers.
