Volltext	Was your child born in Germany and did you adopt it in Germany? After completion of the adoption procedure before the family court, the birth register is automatically notarized. Please contact your local adoption agency. Note: You can apply for new birth certificates or new certified printouts from the birth register. If you have adopted your child abroad, you must apply for the notarization in Germany. Detailed information can be found in the procedure description "Adoption of a foreign child".
Erforderliche Unterlagen	• Application, questionnaire from the adoption agency, • Biography • Photos of the applicants, • Police clearance certificate, • Birth certificate (certified copy), • Marriage and, if applicable, divorce certificate, • Medical certificate from the general practitioner or public health officer (if necessary, also a specialist medical report), • Proof of earnings and assets e.g.

Voraussetzungen	\- Health (good physical, mental and emotional condition) \- No previous convictions endangering the child's well-being \- Stable partnership \- Supportive network/social environment \- Secure economic conditions \- Life satisfaction/reflective personality https://www.bagljae.de/assets/downloads/empfehlung-en-zur-adoptionsvermittlung-9.-neu-bearbeitete-fassung.pdf https://www.bagljae.de/assets/downloads/empfehlung-en-zur-adoptionsvermittlung-9.-neu-bearbeitete-fassung.pdf
Kosten	The procedure is free of charge. Fees and expenses arise when applying for documents such as the certificate of good conduct.
Verfahrensablauf	The family court that issued the adoption sends its decision to the registry office of your adopted child's place of birth. The registrar completes the birth register and forwards the information to the following registry offices: • the registry office, which keeps the birth records for the child's biological parents • the registry office, which keeps the birth records for the Adoptive parents • the registry office that keeps the marriage record for the child if the child's name has changed Note: The same procedure is followed if a German family court converts a foreign adoption from a weak to a strong adoption. Detailed information can be found in the procedure description "Adoption of a foreign child - Applying for conversion of a weak adoption into a strong adoption".

Modul	Sachverhalt
	The birth register contains data on both biological and adoptive parents. For example, it cannot come to marrying siblings. A birth certificate, on the other hand, only proves the current circumstances.
Bearbeitungsdauer	In most cases, the registry office needs 1 to 2 days after receipt of the adoption decree for the notarization.
