Teaser	If significant changes occur in your activities involving pathogens, you must notify the State Office for Occupational Safety, Consumer Protection and Health (LAVG) immediately.
Volltext	You are obliged to notify the LAVG if you are responsible under infection protection law for activities involving pathogens. If you have already received a permit to work with pathogens and have notified the LAVG that you are starting work for the first time, you must notify the LAVG immediately if • significant changes are made to the nature and scope of the activity, the nature of the rooms and facilities or the disposal measures, • significant changes occur in the personnel in management positions, • the activity with pathogens is terminated or • the activity with pathogens is resumed. Even if a permit is not required, you must report changes in accordance with Section 50 IfSG. If you work under the supervision of a person who has a permit or is exempt from the permit requirement, you do not need to report any changes to the activity.
