from the permit requirement, which only need to be notified. As an applicant, you should first ask the LAVG whether your project on animals is an experiment at all under animal welfare law, and whether its approval must be applied for or whether the notification of the experimental project is sufficient. In any case, animal experiments may only be carried out for one of the purposes specified in the Animal Welfare Act. The approval/processing of the animal experiments and the examination of the expertise of the performers is the responsibility of the LAVG. The districts and independent cities are responsible for issuing the permit and monitoring the laboratory animal husbandry. The institutions that carry out experiments must appoint an animal welfare officer. The applications, but also the clarification of questions of animal husbandry, also the examination of the expertise should be carried out by you as the animal welfare officer.

Permitted purposes according to the Animal Welfare Act, the indispensability of which you must demonstrate, are

1. Basic research
2. Preventing, recognizing or treating diseases, ailments, bodily injury or physical ailments
3. Recognizing/influencing physiological states of humans and animals
4. Identification of environmental hazards,
5. Testing of substances or products
6. Development/testing of pharmaceuticals, medical devices, chemicals or other substances and products
7. Species conservation

Note 1:

- The LAVG has to decide on the application within 40 working days. The period begins after formal completeness. The Animal Experimentation Commission, which has to cast its vote within the deadline, supports the LAVG, but does not make the approval decision. Seasonal trials (wildlife) should be planned well in advance; In case of doubt, the application must be submitted before the project is approved.

Note 2:

- Advertisements are not simply "noted" by the LAVG, but, like the applications, are extensively examined by the LAVG, without the involvement of the Animal Experimentation Commission. The experiment may not be started before 20 working days have elapsed after receipt by the LAVG.

Note 3:

- Records of the animal experiments are required in accordance with § 9 Animal Protection Act in conjunction with § 29 Animal Protection Ordinance and to present it at the request of the LAVG.

Note 4:

- As an animal welfare officer, you must always be a veterinarian, from which the LAVG can approve exceptions. In addition to the requirements of § 5 TierSchVersV, it is an advantage from the authorities' point of view if you have scientific experience specific to the subject and animal species and with regard to the formal application.

Note 5:

- Adjacent law must be taken into account by you as the applicant. This is part of the ancillary provisions of the animal welfare permit.
