Hinweise	An identification number is assigned to the farm upon registration. This identification number depends, among other things, on the type of business in question, i.e. a pure hatchery receives a different identification number than, for example, a multiplication business with an attached hatchery. This means that a separate registration application is required for each farm involved in one or more of these areas.
Rechtsbehelf
Kurztext	The following businesses require registration: of the following activities: (a) 'breeding holdings' means holdings whose activity consists of the production of hatching eggs for the production of breeding chicks, multiplier chicks or utility chicks; (b) 'multiplication holdings' means holdings whose activity consists in the production of hatching eggs for the production of commercial chicks (c) 'hatchery' means an establishment whose activity consists of placing hatching eggs in incubators, incubating those eggs and supplying chicks. Issuing of identification numbers in accordance with Article 2(1) of Regulation (EC) No 617/2008
