Teaser	Roads are reserved for road traffic. Therefore, a person who wants to offer goods and services on roads needs an exemption.
Volltext	Roads are usually reserved for road traffic. According to Section 33 (1) of the Road Traffic Regulations (StVO), there is a ban on offering goods and services of all kinds on the road if this could distract or harass road users in a manner that endangers or aggravates traffic. In such cases, an exemption is required, which, however, can only be granted if absolutely necessary after careful consideration of all legal interests. The exemption can be applied for <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • for certain individual cases, or • generally for certain applicants. The term "road" here refers to areas directly dedicated to road traffic. The "offering of services and goods" also includes advertising for them. If certain sizes of the advertising media are exceeded, building law issues must also be examined. There are special commercial regulations
