| Teaser | If you want to care for one or more children outside the household of the parent or guardian regularly and against payment, you usually need permission to do so. |
| Volltext | The permit for child day care according to § 43 of the Eighth Book of the Social Code (SGB VIII), § 20 of the Day Care Center Act of the State of Brandenburg (KitaG) is granted at the request of the child day care person who wants to offer weekly more than 15 hours and more than three months of child day care for remuneration outside the household of the legal guardian during a part of the day, by the youth welfare office of the local youth welfare provider for up to five childcare places. The permit shall indicate the maximum number of day care places. This is based on the requirements of the child's best interests, in particular on the qualification, suitability and performance of the day carer, and on the premises available for day care. When determining the maximum number, children who are cared for during the absence of another day carer in accordance with § 23 paragraph 4 sentence 2 of the Eighth Book of the Social Code are not taken into account if it concerns the temporary care of a few children. If children are cared for only a few hours or on a few days, they may be completely or partially disregarded if the requirements of the child's best interests in accordance with § 20 paragraph 1 sentence 3 KitaG |
