cost-intensive nutrition

- Additional needs if there is an unavoidable, ongoing, non-recurring special need in individual cases (e.g. costs for exercising rights of access)

If you have income that exceeds your standard needs and the costs for your accommodation and heating, the excess amount will reduce the benefit for additional needs.

Initial equipment for pregnancy and birth

If you are pregnant or have given birth, you are entitled to additional financial support for initial equipment, for example for clothing or furniture. The condition is that you are in a financial emergency situation.

Hardship loan

In cases of particular hardship, you can receive a loan during your education. This is possible if exceptional, serious circumstances jeopardize your education and/or you find yourself in an emergency situation that threatens your existence.

You can receive a hardship loan if you do not receive BAföG or your BAföG benefits are not sufficient to cover your living expenses and you are unable to remedy the situation by taking up gainful employment.

You must repay the interest-free hardship loan after your studies.

Hardship grant

If you are a pupil in a school-based course and do not receive educational support because you have exceeded certain age limits and are a hardship case, you may be able to receive a grant if this is absolutely necessary for your integration into working life. The allowance can be paid for

- Standard and additional requirements,
- Needs for accommodation and heating,
- contributions to health and long-term care insurance.

Modul

Sachverhalt

The age limit for educational grants is generally 45 years, other exceptions are possible.

Students cannot receive a hardship grant, only a hardship loan.

Transitional loan

If you are already receiving basic security benefits and are starting training, you can receive a transitional loan for the first month. This loan can help you bridge a financial gap until you receive your first training allowance or training grant. It prevents you from jeopardizing the start of your training. It is only granted for the first month of training and is paid at the beginning of the month. The amount is based on the citizen's allowance.

You must repay the interest-free loan after your training.

Voraussetzungen

If you find yourself in a financial emergency situation at the start of or during your training, you can apply for benefits for trainees. The following applies:

General

- As a trainee or apprentice, you are not entitled to social benefits such as citizen's allowance and
- You are in a financial emergency situation and
- You are unable to support yourself.

As a rule, you can benefit from the above benefits:

- Students who do not live with their parents
Trainees who have reached the statutory BAföG age limit
Students in vocational training or a pre-vocational training program who are accommodated with full board in a boarding school or in a hall of residence.
- Trainees with disabilities who are entitled to a training allowance, for example during vocational training, a pre-vocational training measure or basic training, and who are accommodated in a boarding school, in a residential home or in a special facility for people with disabilities, if the costs of accommodation and meals are covered by the employment agency or another benefit provider.

Loans in general

- Without a loan, the start of your training or its successful completion would be jeopardized for financial reasons.

Hardship loan

- You are not in a position to earn additional income through a part-time job, for example because you are a single parent or you have a disability or you are caring for a relative or your residence permit in Germany does not allow it.
- You can be classified as a hardship case if exceptional, serious circumstances jeopardize your education and/or you find yourself in an emergency situation that threatens your livelihood.

Hardship allowance

- You are at least 45 years old and can therefore no longer receive BAföG due to your age and
- You are in school education, without the completion of which your professional integration is seriously jeopardized, but are not studying.
- You can be classified as a hardship case if exceptional, serious circumstances jeopardize your education and/or you find yourself in an emergency situation that threatens your livelihood.

Kosten

You do not have to pay any costs if you have an account. If you do not have an account, you will receive a payment instruction for a cash payment (ZzV cash). This is a check. However, you will incur costs as a result, which will be deducted directly from the benefit to which you are entitled. As the amount of the costs for the payment order can vary, please contact your local Jobcenter for more information. You can have the check paid out in cash. Payment is made exclusively via Postbank branches. The ZzV-Bar is a means of payment of Postbank AG, the use of which has been agreed separately between the Federal Employment Agency and Postbank.
