Teaser	If you were politically persecuted or became a victim of arbitrariness as a result of an administrative decision by an authority in the former GDR that was contrary to the rule of law and you have suffered damage to your health, you can receive compensation.
Volltext	Many citizens of the former German Democratic Republic (GDR) were politically persecuted or arbitrarily discriminated against and harassed by the authorities of the GDR state apparatus or the Soviet occupation zone in very different ways. Sometimes this went so far that those affected suffered damage to their health that they still suffer from today. Such damage to health can be, for example <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • chronic pain due to the consequences of police operations contrary to the rule of law or • long-term psychological damage caused by years of spying and harassment by the Stasi. If this applies to you and there are no grounds for exclusion, you may be entitled to compensation. You are excluded from the pension if you yourself have violated the principles of humanity or the rule of law in the past or have seriously abused your position for your own benefit or to the detriment of others. This is the case, for example, if you voluntarily acted as an informer or informer for the Ministry for State Security (MfS) in order to gain advantages for yourself.

Sachverhalt

Compensation for victims includes the following benefits:

- Curative and medical treatment as well as physical exercises for the disabled,
- Basic and compensatory pensions for injured persons as well as benefits to compensate for occupational damage, under certain conditions with a severely disabled person's allowance, care allowance or similar,
- Welfare benefits that supplement the other benefits on an individual basis. They are generally dependent on income and assets; however, income is not taken into account if your needs are solely due to the health impairment. Among other things, the following can be considered
 - Supplementary assistance for living expenses,
 - Assistance in maintaining the household,
 - Benefits for participation in working life,
 - assistance for the elderly,
 - care assistance,
 - housing assistance and
 - recreational assistance.
