household of EUR 17 per hour. Honorary judges who receive income in lieu of employment are treated in the same way as employed honorary judges. Compensation for part-time employees shall be granted for a maximum of ten hours per day less the number of hours corresponding to the agreed regular daily working hours. Compensation shall not be granted if the costs of a necessary replacement are reimbursed.

Additional compensation is granted for loss of earnings, based on the regular gross earnings including social security contributions to be borne by the employer, but not exceeding EUR 29 per hour. The compensation shall amount to up to EUR 55 per hour for honorary judges who are called upon for more than 20 days in the same proceedings or who are deprived of their regular gainful employment for at least six days within a period of 30 days. It amounts to up to EUR 73 per hour for honorary judges who are called upon for more than 50 days in the same proceedings.

A special regulation applies to the compensation of commercial judges.

Erforderliche Unterlagen

- Employees claiming loss of earnings must provide a loss of earnings certificate from their employer.

Voraussetzungen

You are working as an honorary judge.

Compensation for disadvantages in housekeeping: Compensation is only granted if the honorary judges are not gainfully employed or if they are employed part-time and are called upon to work outside their agreed regular daily working hours. Compensation shall not be granted if the costs of a necessary replacement are reimbursed.

Kosten
Verfahrensablauf
