Teaser	Certain travel trade activities that do not require a permit must be reported to the responsible municipality.
Volltext	If you wish to sell or purchase goods, offer services, seek orders for services or operate as a showman on a commercial basis outside of a commercial establishment or without the existence of such an establishment without a prior order, you generally require a permit (traveling trade license) (for more information, see "Related topics" - "Traveling trade; permit"). However, certain activities do not require a traveling trade card (see "Related topics" - "Occasional offering of goods for sale; applying for a permit"). However, some of these activities are instead subject to notification to the municipality, unless the trade is already subject to trade notification. These are • the distribution of goods, the purchase of goods, the offering of services or the solicitation of orders for services in the municipality of one's place of residence or commercial establishment, provided the municipality has no more than 10,000 inhabitants, • the sale of foodstuffs or other everyday goods from a non-fixed sales outlet or other establishment at regular, shorter intervals at the same location, • the offering for sale of printed matter on public roads, streets, squares or other public places.
